Thank you for your support!

Rob Bonta is the Vice Mayor of the City of Alameda and currently serves as the City of Alameda's representative on the Alameda County Transportation Commission. Throughout his career in public service, Vice Mayor Bonta, 39, has distinguished himself as a strong advocate for Alameda's and California's public schools. He has fought to prevent layoffs of firefighters and police officers, foster economic development, exercise fiscal responsibility, and improve recreation opportunities for families.

Rob spearheaded the creation of Alameda's America's Cup Committee to make Alameda and its neighboring cities a hub of economic activity during what is the third largest sporting event in the world. The America's Cup, coming to the San Francisco Bay in 2013, is projected to bring over a million visitors and give an estimated $1.4 Billion economic boost to the region.

Prior to being elected to the Alameda City Council, Rob was an elected member of the Alameda Health Care District Board of Directors, where he played a key role in stabilizing the finances of Alameda Hospital. He also served as the Chair of the City of Alameda's Economic Development Commission, where he focused on business attraction and business retention efforts.

Rob began his public service in Alameda as the board president for both the Social Service Human Relations Board, where he fought to protect safety net services for the most vulnerable members of the community, and Alternatives in Action, which oversees high school, preschool and after school programs serving youth from Oakland, San Leandro, and Alameda.

Rob currently serves as a Deputy City Attorney for the City and County of San Francisco, where he represents the City and County and its employees and brings cases to protect California's residents from different forms of abuse. Rob's legal career has included service as litigation associate for a major Bay Area law firm and as a law clerk for Judge Alvin W. Thompson of the United States District Court in Connecticut.

A prolific soccer player, Rob played for the San Francisco Bay Seals, a professional minor league team. He played on two Ivy League Championship teams for Yale College.

Rob is the son of a proud native Filipino mother and a father who taught him the value of public service to his community. They both worked with the United Farm Workers and were active in the Civil Rights Movement and the ongoing fight for social, economic, and racial justice. Rob has served as the board president of the Asian Pacific American Democratic Caucus of Alameda County, board member of Filipino Advocates for Justice and the Manilatown Heritage Foundation, and is a founding member of the Filipino-American Democratic Club of Alameda County.

Rob graduated with honors from Yale College with a degree in History. At Yale, he was awarded the Roosevelt L. Thompson Prize, given to the student with the greatest dedication to and capacity for public service. He was also a recipient of the William Neely Mallory Award for the best male athlete at Yale. After studying at Oxford University in England, he returned to earn his Juris Doctorate from Yale Law School.

Rob and his wife Mialisa live in Alameda with their three children.
